

Tourist guides experience RWG's latest attractions

The visit in celebration of International Tourist Guide Day

Genting Highlands, 7 March 2017 – International Tourist Guide Day at Resorts World Genting turned out to be a fascinating event for the tourist guides from Kuala Lumpur. Hosted by Resorts World Genting recently, the occasion provided the tourist guides an overview of the new developments taking place at the resort.

The 120 tourist guides involved were given an idea of the exciting times ahead for the resort as they were taken on a tour of its latest attractions. Among others, they got to experience the new Awana Skyway, and were brought to the Genting International Convention Centre (GICC) where they learned the resort's stunning progress. The imminent opening of the new outdoor theme park was another highlight for the tourist guides—they were briefed on the latest development of this first-of-its-kind theme park.

All these developments are part of a 10-year masterplan to transform Resorts World Genting. The Genting Integrated Tourism Plan (GITP) includes a total capital investment of RM10.38 billion, and will, when completed, provide world-class, unique entertainment options for visitors. These options include the newly opened SkyAvenue shopping mall that offers exciting shopping and dining options.

The tourist guides were greeted upon their arrival by Katherine Chew, Vice President of Resort Communications and Public Relations of Resorts World Genting, before they were briefed by the representatives of the resort's various departments. Within a couple of hours, the tourist guides had covered various features of the resort, from theme park to casino to F&B.

Among those who were involved in the briefing were Ganaesan Subramaniam (Vice President of Hotel Operations), Sanjay Nadarajah (Vice President of Theme Park), Francis Lee Kong Keng (Assistant Vice-President of Theme Park), Steven Pillay (Assistant Vice President of Casino Table Games, Khor Joo Kung (Assistant Manager of Transport), Cheah Wen Ing (Assistant Manager of Genting Arts & Cultural Centre), Ng Ruo Yi (Senior Executive of Marketing & Promotions Tenancy), Yumi Soh (Senior Executive of Promotions and Entertainment) and Roland Quek (Manager of General Gaming Marketing, Casino Marketing).

The Kuala Lumpur Tourist Guides Association (KLPGA) was instrumental in getting the group to celebrate International Tourist Guide Day at Resorts World Genting—a day that celebrates the profession and helps promote it. Aptly, the itinerary for the day also saw the tourist guides being treated to a sumptuous meal at the resort.
