Resorts World Genting brings Mid-Autumn Cheer to the En Yuan Old Folks Home

Puan Seri Cecilia Lim and Malaysian artist Queenzy made it a Mid-Autumn to remember for the residents of the home

Genting Highlands, 25th September 2018 – In the halcyon days of yore, the Mid-Autumn festival was time for poets and villagers, for nobility and peasantry, for the young and old to gather and stare contemplatively at the moon, while supping on slivers of delicious mooncakes as colourful lanterns floated around to add festivity to this ancient celebration. While modern life is no longer as languid, the Mid-Autumn festival is still a joyous celebration for all Malaysians, and this year the residents of En Yuan Old Folks Home in Petaling Jaya received a wonderful surprise as Resorts World Genting brought the fullness of the festival to them.

Attended by Puan Sri Cecilia Lim, wife of Genting Group Chairman Tan Sri Lim Kok Thay, this year's Mid-Autumn Festival CSR Visit to the En Yuan Old Folks Home was a feast to remember. She marked that it was an event that would stay in her memory in a long time whilst expressing her pleasure that the residents of the En Yuan Old Folks Home wouldn't be left out of the important Chinese celebration.

As representatives from Resorts World Genting mingled with residents, chatting and conversing with them about their lives, the halls of the home resonated with joyful laughter. A lunch of Kentucky Fried Chicken had been prepared by the RWG team and they sat together with the residents in the spirit of togetherness that characterises the Mid-Autumn festival. Cheers rang out with the arrival of Puan Sri Cecilia, who greeted every one of the residents personally, wishing them well. Sundries were also donated to the residents whilst individual goodie bags filled with daily necessities were distributed.

Malaysian artist Queenzy then took the atmosphere up a notch. Twirling, dancing and singing, Queenzy sang evergreen Chinese songs as she walked among the residents, encouraging them to sing along. Many of the old folks knew the lyrics of the songs by heart, and were thrilled to join in with Queenzy's show, making it an energetic group performance. As the concert came to an end, boxes of mooncakes were then brought out. Handmade by the skilled culinary team at Resorts World Genting, the mooncakes – from traditional lotus paste and salted egg yolk to chilled snow skin varieties were enjoyed by the old folks. Music continued to play at the home and Puan Sri Cecilia took the opportunity to invite some of the old folks for an impromptu dance, a truly enjoyable treat that they cherished and captured for posterity during the photo opportunity. The memorable event formed a bond between the old folks and the representatives that will last a lifetime.
